

Changes to Selected Distributed Software Products Acquired Through IBM or IBM Business Partners Who Remarket iSeries and pSeries

Overview

In response to your needs, we are pleased to provide an enhanced, simplified way to acquire software licenses, Software Subscription, and technical support for IBM distributed software. This new software acquisition model will be implemented worldwide for distributed software products acquired through the IBM International Passport Advantage Agreement, and these products when acquired through IBM Business Partners who remarket iSeries and pSeries, or IBM directly.

This announcement covers the changes to distributed software acquired outside of Passport Advantage through IBM Business Partners who remarket iSeries and pSeries products. At this time, the new software acquisition model does not extend to the AIX® and OS/400® operating systems and their licensed program products. IBM intends to announce a similar offering for the other iSeries and pSeries software. Software license terms will remain unchanged for existing iSeries products until February 12, 2002.

The announcement of IBM's new distributed software model encompasses a series of announcements. For a complete listing of all announcement letters related to this announcement, refer to the Description section.

Planned Availability Dates

At a Glance

Enhanced and simplified software license, software subscription, and technical support acquisition model for IBM distributed software represents a new common approach and structure providing you:

- A streamlined way to stay current and ensure technical support coverage
- A single planning and predictable budgeting cycle for all IBM distributed software needs
- Enhanced technical support included as part of Software Maintenance
- Continued ability to access new IBM software versions and releases as they become generally available as long as Software Maintenance is kept current

Description

Key changes to the software and technical support acquisition model include:

- A common structure for the licensing of IBM distributed software products including, but not limited to, DB2®, WebSphere™, Lotus®, and Tivoli®.
- Software Maintenance (defined as Software Subscription and Technical Support) included with all licenses for a period of 12 months from the date of acquisition providing a streamlined way to stay current and ensure technical support coverage for all licenses. Customers can elect to extend coverage for a total of three years from the date of acquisition. Software Maintenance also provides access to current and future software versions and releases, and technical support during the support period.
- Automatic notification of Software Maintenance renewal at the end of your coverage period.
- Enhanced technical support features included in Software Maintenance:
 - Unlimited calls to IBM software technical support centers by any number of authorized IS technical staff
 - 24-hours per day, 7-days per week support coverage for customers' mission-critical problems

These additional changes will also be made effective September 1, 2001:

- Revised IBM Operational Support Services — Support Line terms and conditions.
- Withdrawal of IBM distributed software from technical support offerings that do not offer Software Maintenance.

The following change will also be made:

- Software Subscription for these products will no longer be available through pSeries Software Subscription programs effective October 10, 2001, and iSeries Software Subscription programs effective February 12, 2002.

Note: Effective September 1, 2001, technical support for iSeries products in this announcement may only be acquired through the Passport Advantage program until the effective date of the new Software Maintenance feature. Contact your IBM sales point for Interim pricing.

With the announcement of IBM's new distributed software acquisition model, all software licenses in this announcement will now include Software Maintenance for 12 months.

Software Maintenance

Software Maintenance (previously available separately as Software Subscription and Technical Support) is the most effective way for you to ensure that your users have the latest technology at their fingertips and maintain the highest levels of productivity. With Software Maintenance, your IS technical staff has access to our latest versions and releases, as well as ongoing access to IBM software technical support centers as needed.

Software Maintenance is the most effective strategy for staying up-to-date and ensuring technical support coverage during normal business hours. Software Maintenance provides you with access to versions and releases for covered products. In addition to access to our latest technology, an integral part of Software Maintenance is technical support designed to meet the support requirements of a customer running multiple IBM products in a complex environment. The support is not intended as an end-user support offering but is designed to supplement your IS staff by providing telephone and electronic cross-platform support for routine, short duration installation, usage (how-to) questions and code related problems. Software Maintenance is automatically included for all programs in this announcement with all licenses for 12 months with the option of extending coverage for a total of three years. As long as your Software Maintenance is active, you will continue to receive all the Software Maintenance benefits.

Software Maintenance Renewal

- At the end of your existing Software Maintenance coverage, you will have the option to renew at the then current Software Maintenance offering.
- It is your responsibility to ensure that the renewal order is either placed directly with IBM no later than the day before the renewal date, or with a Business Partner in time to allow the order to arrive at IBM no later than the day before the renewal date.
- If you choose not to renew Software Maintenance for a license, or the renewal is not received by IBM prior to the document renewal date, "Software Maintenance after License" will need to be acquired to reinstate the Software Maintenance coverage for that license.

With Software Maintenance, you receive the following technical support benefits:

- Telephone access and/or electronic access via the Web (where available) to an IBM Support Center.
- Support for routine, short duration installation and usage ("how-to") questions and code-related problems for product licenses covered by Software Maintenance.
- Support during normal country business hours (prime shift hours), excluding national or statutory holidays.
- Offshift support for a problem you deem mission critical (all hours outside normal country business hours including national and/or statutory holidays).
- Two-hour response time objective during prime shift for voice and electronic submission problem submissions. The response objective for critical/emergency problems during offshift is also two hours.
- Access to hints, tips, and frequently asked questions.
- Access to escalation management 24 hours per day, seven days a week.
- Ability to authorize any number of knowledgeable IS technical staff who can submit problems to IBM Support Centers on your behalf.

Terms and Conditions for Technical Support

- Volume Orders (IVO): Yes, contact your IBM representative.
- Educational Allowance Available: Yes, 15% education allowance applies to qualified education institution customers.

IBM Responsibilities: IBM will provide telephone support (and in selected countries, electronic access) to product specialists who will:

- Be available to provide support during the authorized caller's period of coverage. IBM's objective is to respond to callers within a maximum of two business hours after receiving their calls during normal business hours.
- Answer specific, task-oriented problems or questions pertaining to the use and operation of currently supported products and refer the caller to IBM or Lotus product documentation or publications for additional information and instructions.

Customer Responsibilities

- An authorized technical caller must be available to work with IBM staff during the entire time IBM is providing support outside of normal country business hours.
- Each customer site should identify a Site Technical Contact at the time of the first Software Maintenance acquisition.
- You agree that each authorized caller is a technically trained person, a member of your IS technical staff with knowledge on the product they are calling in on, and is not an end-user.
- Any authorized caller may call on any IBM-supported products across their assigned site as long as they are technically skilled on that product.

Other Terms and Conditions

- Software Maintenance does not extend the announced end of service date (as noted in the announcement letter) of any eligible product.
- Software Maintenance is not intended as a help desk for end-users.

Ordering Information and Charges

Orders can be placed beginning September 4, 2001, for pSeries programs and February 12, 2002, for iSeries programs.

In order to support Software Maintenance (Software Subscription and Technical Support) for selected pSeries and iSeries software programs, new billing features to reflect the new benefits are being announced. These new features will replace the current billing features of the selected programs which will be withdrawn. The media features and other unaffected features remain unchanged for each of these programs.

Each distributed software product covered under the Software Maintenance offering will have Software Maintenance coverage for one year from the acquisition of the applicable licensed product. The Software Maintenance offering will be the only way to obtain technical support or software versions and releases for those products. The options for Software Maintenance coverage will be one or three-year prepay contracts. If the license including Software Maintenance for one-year option is acquired, customers can select to renew their Software Maintenance coverage for either one or three years. If the license including Software Maintenance for the three-year option is acquired, the customer must be billed for the two additional years of coverage beyond the license charge. At their Software Maintenance renewal date, the customer can elect to renew their license coverage for one or three years. Customers with licenses obtained before the combined offering was offered may sign up for Software Maintenance options of one and three years immediately, or after their existing Software Subscription or Technical Support coverage expires.

The ordering process for new versions and releases the customer is entitled to as a result of acquiring Software Maintenance will be different depending on whether the product runs on the iSeries or pSeries platform.

Software upgrades supported on the iSeries platform should be ordered using the configurator. The configurator will check to see if the customer is entitled to an upgrade by the existence of the one or three-year Software Maintenance type/model. If entitled, an order with the appropriate media/language features will be created for the entitled software program.

At the end of each one or three year contract period customers will have to elect a new one or three-year option at the renewal rate or the "Software Maintenance After License" rate if the contract had lapsed.

Note: The registration features below have no-charge (NC) on a one-year Software Maintenance contract (the first year charge is covered in the price of the license) and a two-year charge on a three-year maintenance contract.

Software upgrades supported on the pSeries platform should be ordered using the configurator or customers may access a Web site (for those geographies supporting one). When using the configurator to order an upgrade, the configurator will check to see if the customer is entitled to an upgrade by the existence of the one or three-year maintenance type/model. If entitled, an MES order with the appropriate media/language features will be created against the appropriate one or three-year maintenance PID.
