

Shelter, Lake Guernsey State Park, Wyoming

From rude outcropping at its base to finished termination of the chimney is visual presentation of successive stages of masonry evolution. Plant growth should ultimately complete the blending to site so skillfully started by the rock work. The contrast between exterior and interior masonry surface is startling.