Privacy Statement

This Web site has been created to provide our visitors with information on certain medical conditions. Eli Lilly and Company respects the privacy of visitors to its Web sites, and we feel it is important to maintain our guests' privacy as they take advantage of this resource. As a result, we have developed this privacy code.

With respect to this Web site, Eli Lilly and Company will only collect, store, or use personally identifiable information, such as your name, address, telephone number, or e-mail address ("Your Information"), when it is voluntarily submitted to us. We will use Your Information to respond to requests you may make of us, and from time to time, we may refer to Your Information to better understand your needs and how we can improve our Web sites, products and services. Any and all uses would comply with all applicable laws. We may also use Your Information to contact you. However, the provision of Your Information will only be necessary if you choose to use or receive certain tools or services, such as a newsletter or our medical reminder service. The majority of this Web site does not require the provision of Your Information. Any other information transferred by you in connection with your visit to this site ("Other Information" - i.e., information that cannot be used to identify you) may be included in databases owned and maintained by Eli Lilly and Company or its agents. Lilly retains all rights to these databases and the information contained in them.

Our Web sites, like nearly all sites on the Internet, will use Other Information and pool it with information that tracks the total number of visitors to our site, the number of visitors to each page of our site, and the domain names of our visitors' Internet service providers. However, it is important to note that no personally identifiable information is available or used in this process.

In addition, some of our Web sites use a technology called "cookies". A cookie is a piece of information that the computer that hosts our site gives to your computer (actually to your browser) when you access a Web site. Our cookies provide additional functionality to the site and help us analyze site usage more accurately. For instance, our site may set a cookie on your browser that keeps you from needing to remember and enter a password more than once during a visit to the site. In all cases in which we use cookies, we will not collect personally identifiable information without your permission.

We are committed to protecting the privacy of children. You should be aware that this site is not intended for, or designed to attract, children under the age of 13. We do not collect personally identifiable information from any person we actually know is a child under the age of 13.

Our Web sites have security measures in place, including the use of industry standard secure socket layer encryption (SSL), to protect the confidentiality of any of Your Information that you volunteer, however, to take advantage of this your browser must support encryption protection (found in Internet Explorer release 3.0 and above). These security measures also help us to honor your choices for the use of Your Information.

Subject: Medi-Messenger

Dear Medi-Messenger User:

We're listening! This week Eli Lilly and Company relaunched Prozac.com with a new navigation and feel. Based upon feedback from consumers like you, we have discontinued our Medi-Messenger e-mail reminder service. We are appreciative of your comments, and hope this does not cause any inconvenience to those of you who were using this feature.
