II. Storyline

A. High Concept

Sonic the Hedgehog battles Dr. Robotnik in a Virtual Reality (VR) world.

B. Theme

1. Environment:

SONIC MARS is based on the ABC network cartoon characters and environment.

The cartoon series portrays Sonic and his friends as good-hearted "Robin Hood"-type characters who battle the evil Dr. Robotnik and his nefarious plans to conquer and exploit the planet Mobius.

2. Game Story:

While Sonic is away checking on a security alarm in a remote part of the Great Forest, his pals (Sally, Bunnie, Tails and Knuckles) have discovered a strange message from within one of Robotnik's super computers.

(Dr. Robotnik is trying to take over a computer VR world (Micro Mobius) and the message is a plea for help from it's peaceful inhabitants.)

Sonic returns to Knothole to discover that Robotnik has captured his friends and taken them into his VR world.

Sonic is tasked with trying to liberate his friends and thwart Robotnik's plan to completely "reformat" Micro Mobius.

C. Main Characters

1. Sonic the Hedgehog:

Our hero. The one-and-only, incomparable speedy hedgehog.

2. Princess Sally Acorn:

Intelligent, practical, courageous and clever computer whiz.

3. Tails:

Young, innocent, but extremely dexterous companion to Sonic.

4. Bunnie Rabbot:

Exceptionally strong and a solid team player.

5. Knuckles:

Very cool, very capable Sonic buddy.

6. Doctor Robotnik:

Evil and conniving nemesis of Sonic and his pals.

7. King Cybersooski:

Elderly and benevolent leader of Micro Mobius.

8. Mips:

Inhabitants of Micro Mobius who are being morphed into Robotnik's various bad guys.

9. Princess Tiara:

Daughter of King Cybersooski. She will vie for Sonic's attention (much to Sally's displeasure). Will Sonic have to choose?

III. Main Play Screen

A. View

First-person, behind Sonic view. Objects and terrain scale towards the player.

Sonic primarily runs "into" the screen, although he can also run left right and back. The camera remains locked (pointing "North") relative to the terrain, thus Sonic can be seen from all angles.

The "terrain" consists of "floating" platforms suspended in "air." Various heights (altitudes) separate each platform. Each platform can have a number of slopes (angles) and so are not necessarily flat.

Objects and characters appear either sitting on or floating close above the platform.

"Teleport" pads move Sonic back and forth through the level, making replay and re-exploration possible

B. User Control

1. First controller

a. SONIC

C Button - Sonic Jump (Sonic Spin Attack)

B Button - (Call Mips)

A Button -

A + Down on D-pad - Sonic Dash (Super Speed Dash from standing) in direction pointing. (Stand), press and hold A, (stand), press Down and hold, (ducks), repeated presses of A, (revs up), release D-pad, (Go).

D-pad in direction - Run in that direction (hold to accelerate)

D-pad opposite of current direction- Brake

-Pressing A, B or C buttons twice quickly activates an Insta-shield, which protects Sonic for a split second.

START-button pauses the game. Play bell sound and display text "PAUSE" over center screen.

2. Second controller - While playing with Sonic and a pal, the second controller is used to control the second character. The play screen always remains centered around Sonic. The second character only has a limited radius from Sonic to "operate" in.

Sonic rescues a pal on each level. Each character he rescues becomes available to him as a partner on succeeding levels. Pressing START-button on the second controller sends the current partner offscreen to be replaced by the next partner (if available.) The roster cycles through available partners.

a. TAILS - use Tails as Sonic's historical sidekick. With Tails' limited flying/swimming ability, he can fly to otherwise inaccessible areas, or swim up for air if underwater.

C Button - Tails Jump (Tails Spin Attack)

B Button -

A Button -

A + Down on D-pad - Tails Dash (Super Speed Dash from standing) in direction pointing. (Stand), press and hold A, (stand), press Down and hold, (ducks), repeated presses of A, (revs up), release D-pad, (Go).

D-pad in direction - Run in that direction

D-pad in direction - Walk in that direction

D-pad opposite of current direction- Brake

-Pressing A, B or C buttons twice quickly makes Knuckles fly or climb sheer walls. Multiple double presses will gain some altitude, but mostly his flying is limited to soaring.

C Button - Bunnie Jump

B Button -

A Button - Bunnie hits in current facing direction

Hold A + Up on D-pad - quickly extends arm vertically.

-If arm latches on to a surface, then Up on D-pad pulls Bunnie up (if Sonic is standing near, he will be grabbed and taken along.)

-Arm will grab objects, then retract.

D-pad in direction - Run in that direction

D-pad opposite of current direction- Brake

START-button - Change partner

d. SALLY - use Sally's Hoverboard much like Tails' tail. She has a mini-computer named Nicole, that she uses to open special doors, disable traps and access Robotnik's computer.

C Button - Sally Jump Attack

B Button -

A Button - Sally uses Nicole to reprogram boxes

D-pad in direction - Run in that direction

D-pad opposite of current direction- Brake

C Button - Tiara Jump Spark Attack

B Button -

A Button -

A + Down on D-pad - Tiara Tachyon Tornado (Super Speed Dash from standing) in direction pointing. (Stand), press and hold A, (stand), press Down and hold, (ducks), repeated presses of A, (revs up), release D-pad, (Go).

D-pad in direction - Run in that direction

D-pad opposite of current direction- Brake

-Pressing A, B or C buttons twice quickly makes Tiara hover as electrical particles. Multiple double presses will increase altitude. She can transport Sonic for a short distance, before she tires.

START-button - Change partner

IV. Special Zone (Chaos Emerald) Screen

A. View

First-person, behind Sonic view. Objects and terrain scale towards the player.

Sonic runs "into" the screen. The camera remains locked behind Sonic, so unlike the main game, Sonic is always seen from the rear.

The "terrain" consists of 2-4 "floating" cubes suspended in "air." There are various configurations of cubes arrays which get more complex as the game progresses.

The only path across a cube face is along the centerline, with the ability<sup>7</sup> to turn left or right at the center intersection. Rings appear on the path. (Death spikes can appear at center intersections.)

B. Art Direction

1. Screen Layout

Use standard Main Play screen.

2. Cube Complex

Cube complexes are 2-4 cubes connected by at least one common edge. (See diagrams.) Each face of a cube has a clear centerline path that Sonic travels along.

Enough of the cube complex must appear in the player's peripheral vision to allow him to get the sense of solving a 3-D "puzzle."

Each face of the cube complex is a scaling textured bit-map polygon.

3. Backgrounds

Each zone has a unique background for that Special Zone screen.

The horizon line shifts and scrolls according to Sonic's direction. Since the cube complex is rigid in space, the background sky and ground must move accordingly. This means the horizon line can appear as a vertical strip.

4. Rings

There are 4 rings per cube face "radius." There are 16 total rings per cube face. There are 96 rings per complete cube. There can be 384 rings in a 4 cube complex.

C. User Control

1. Sonic

C Button - Sonic jumps

B Button

A Button

D-pad up - Run forward

D-pad left/right - Change direction only at intersection.

START-button pauses the game. Play bell sound and display text "PAUSE" over center screen.

D. User Feedback

1. During Special game

Display normal data in Main Play screen (Time, Score, Lives, Rings, Chaos Emeralds.) Display Sonic Logo Plate in Overhead Map Area.

Decrease number X-rings left as each ring is collected.

B. Art Direction

1. Screen Layout

Use full screen. Sonic's score is displayed at the bottom. Sonic goals are displayed as 5 lights at bottom.

2. Hedge Hockey Table

Like an "Air Hockey" table, shown end view. Two goals are embedded in the center of each short end.

Two Bonus Tubes appear at the center of each long side. These tubes dispense the Puck and Bonus Spheres. The Bonus Tubes spiral away to the screen edges. The tubes flash when a Puck or Bonus Sphere is about to be dispensed onto the table.

Table markings denote goal areas, centerline, half-court line, and center tip-off area.

3. Players

Sonic appears as a semi-transparent or wire-frame shape. The player controls Sonic's shuttle.

Robotnik appears at the other end of the table.

3. Backgrounds

The background remains the same in every Zone/Act..

Background and details are cyber-organic.

On Sonic's side of the table are "celebration" flowers that light and animate.

On Robotnik's side of the table are his "celebration" lights.

4. Objects

Bonus Spheres are dispensed onto the table at random intervals. They roll around until broken by a directed (player hit, not rebounded) puck, or flash and disappear after X-seconds.

When a shuttle hits the puck, flash the collision.

When a puck enters a goal, flash the goal.

Sonic's score racks up like a pinball machine after each Sonic goal. Light a goal light (up to 5 goals) after every Sonic goal.

Prizes are awarded if the directed puck hits and breaks open a Bonus Sphere. The Prize graphic floats momentarily above the broken sphere, then disappears.

2. Shuttle/Puck

When a shuttle hits the puck, flash the collision (if space allows, show relative flash size to hit speed).

When a puck enters a goal, flash the goal, and related background celebration lights.

On Sonic's side of the table are "celebration" flowers that light and animate. These animate before the game begins and when Sonic scores a goal.

Display Sonic Logo Plate in Overhead Map Area.

2. Art Direction

a. Background

The main play area is the surface of a huge spinning roulette wheel. Sonic can run along the outer roll track or along the inner wedge slot area. Sonic must Spin Attack the center sphere to attack Orbotnik.

b. Boss - "Orbotnik"

"Orbotnik" sits in a glass sphere in the center of the roulette wheel. He releases deadly steel balls onto the roulette surface, and he electrifies random wheel "wedge." He laughs when Sonic is hit. When his glass sphere is hit by Sonic, the sphere cracks and he winces.

c. Objects

Steel balls - scale as they roll and bounce around the perimeter of the wheel. They behave as a typical roulette ball, i.e. they should first roll around the edge then bounce and rattle around as they settle into a groove (pie slice.) Contact with a steel ball is deadly. Steel balls stay on the wheel and act as obstacles unless eliminated by Orbotnik.

Electrified Wedges - Orbotnik randomly selects and electrifies a roulette "wedge." Contact with an electrified wedge is deadly. Any steel ball that happens to be sitting on an electrified wedge is destroyed.

a. The Tune

Sonic tries to reach the end of the song without being scrolled off the left edge of the screen, or falling off the staff along the way.

The tune has rests, high and low notes, glissades, long and short pauses, and changes in tempo. This translates to a wide variety of leaps, slides, pauses, speed ups and slow downs.

Any Sonic death fall (or collision with a Sharp symbol) will pop open his rings and rebound Sonic back onto the staff. Subsequent death falls without rings result in his death.

5. Computer Intelligence

a. Boss - Robotnik uses three different vehicles to thwart Sonic. He will utilize them in a pre-set order, but their actual attack pattern is based on Sonic's horizontal position. The underside of each vehicle is deadly.

Ball Bomber Attack - Robotnik flies on screen and attempts to drop the Bowling ball on Sonic. After 8 seconds of flying around, will release the ball and fly off screen. The ball now becomes a deadly rolling item that will travel over the surface of the loop. As time goes on, more and more balls will accumulate as deadly obstacles.

Gatling Gun Attack - Robotnik flies on screen and strafes Sonic with the Gatling Gun. He makes 2 passes, then flies off.

Hammer Attack - Robotnik flies on screen and attempts to flatten Sonic. If Robotnik misses and hits the loop, the loop will shake and all Bowling Balls will bounce and reposition horizontally. He attacks for 3 hammer blows, then flies off.

Robotnik Sore Point - The upper section of each of Robotnik's vehicles is the same part. Robotnik's canopy is vulnerable to attack. As hits are accumulated, more and more pieces of his upper vehicle are broken off. When he is finally destroyed, all that remains is Robotnik sitting in an old ceramic bathtub.

Hit Points - The upper portion of Robotnik's vehicle breaks up in four stages:

4 hits - lose side node

4 hits - lose canopy

6 hits - lose middle node

8 hits - (stop all movement) break apart shell to reveal bathtub. Robotnik flees tub. Stands and fumes, then gets run over by Bowling ball. Show Robotnik plastered onto ball surface and traveling down tube.

b. Background

Mobius Tube -The speed of forward movement in the loop is forced (i.e. Sonic is always running.) Sonic can move left and right, as well as jump. He cannot run off a side edge. The movement rate increases as time passes.

Rings - Movement is "into" the screen. When Sonic gets hit and the Rings explode, they must be spewed in front of Sonic, so he can have a chance to retrieve them.

Bowling balls - Bowling balls are dropped by Mobius. As they are dropped they become rolling obstacles on the loop. All roll at the same speed so a formation of balls remain constant as they roll around the loop. Robotnik will move aside to avoid them.

Speed Bumps - These are arranged in a set pattern. A Bowling ball which runs over a speed bump will bounce into the air and continue to roll. When Sonic hits a speed bump, it is a hit.

IX. Design Goals

A. Historical

The original trilogy of highly successful SONIC games, as well as implementations of Game Gear, Spinball and CD derivatives clearly show the necessity for quality execution in any continuing product bearing the SONIC character.

So, why alter a proven vehicle? Two main reasons exist for the evolutionary changes in SONIC MARS.

One, it is unclear whether yet another side-scrolling SONIC game would be readily accepted by a saturated 16-bit Genesis audience.

Two, attempting to out-do the "classic" craftsmanship that is the result of many years of iteration and evolution, without substantial "original creator" support, is improbable.

B. Technical

SONIC MARS is an attempt to take the highly successful SONIC side-scrolling gameplay to another level of player sophistication while not sacrificing the essential core material that makes SONIC a video-gaming icon.

By making the main play view an "over-the-hedgehog" first-person angle, SONIC MARS will exploit a largely neglected (but highly difficult to implement well) play mechanism for arcade/action titles, while exploiting the 32-X hardware.

This will allow SONIC MARS to take advantage of well-developed and recognized SONIC play conventions, while allowing for fresh and unique player interaction.

C. Game Characteristics

It is essential that SONIC MARS execute the following attributes in a top-quality manner:

Speed, speed and more speed-It must be, without question, the FASTEST first-person racing game to date.

Realistic physics-

The environmental physics must remain intuitive, precise and highly realistic.

Quality player control-

The player must always feel in accurate control.

Superior graphics-

The quality of graphic appeal is paramount. The game must contain blow-away art, with precise attention paid to polish and chrome. Eye candy.

Power rings, multiple worlds, power-ups, special zones and multiple paths through a level-

SONIC MARS must retain many of the existing Sonic game conventions.

Use of the network cartoon characters-It is desirable to have the synergy of the network cartoon with a quality game.

Delightful, wondrous, surprising and FUN-

We must retain the "amazing and fabulous" quotient. We must satisfy certainly attempt to surpass the expected level of execution and creativity a SONIC product requires.

X. Risks

A. Conceptual:

Are players sick of Sonic and Robotnik going at it yet another time?

SONIC MARS will integrate the network TV characters and Knuckles from Sonic 3. This will help soften the focus of just Sonic versus Robotnik.

Level bosses will be uniquely rich Robotnik mutations, not just the Doctor in various vehicles.

Why not do another of the same kind of game? Why go away from what clearly works?

See Design Goals (above). Clearly if we do not take reasonable risks and "push the envelope," we will be passed by. For Sonic to remain focused in the gaming eye, we must consider every possible way to exhibit superior and innovative gameplay.

B. Technical:

Why First-person? Why not 3/4 view, top down or tilted playfield?

First-person view relates well to the Virtual World environment. A 3-D view will allow us to exploit and feature the 32-X hardware.

Will the 32-X adapter really happen and if so, when?

32-X is planned for a Christmas '94 release. Development boards are scheduled to appear by May '94. SONIC MARS is tentatively scheduled to be completed approximately 10-12 months after the complete 32-X development system is made available to STI (Approximately June 30, 1995.)

C. Production and Development Schedule:

Why build a new engine so late in the lifetime of the Genesis?

If the game engine proves to be robust, more Sonic iterations could be developed for the future.

As history indicates, only those highest profile characters and licenses survive into the waning years of a machine's lifetime. Sonic certainly qualifies as one of those high profile characters.

The 32-X adapter, along with quality dedicated software, may greatly extend the lifetime of the Genesis.

D. Marketplace and Competition:

Is the audience still there?

"Being fast just isn't good enough anymore," - a Sonic focus group member.

Perhaps due in part to the cartoon TV exposure, the age group for Sonic fans appears to be skewing younger.

Core players of Sonic #1 have grown up and out of the Sonic phase. They are less likely to buy a Sonic title based solely on the Sonic character, but will demand fresh, high quality gameplay.

Sonic Spinball and CD game reviews indicate a slight weariness with the Sonic character; however, superior game quality continues to emerge as the gating factor in acceptance.

SONIC MARS will attempt to appeal to an older audience (what is considered "cool" by the older players will naturally trickle down to the younger players):

New hardware.

New Main game engine.

New (but familiar) game control.

New storyline and additional characters.

New environments

Crowded and saturated marketplace?

If the Nintendo 8-bit sales/titles versus hardware lifetime relationship is a model, it will be increasingly more difficult to differentiate new non-licensed themes and characters in a highly saturated action/arcade field.

Due to it's rich heritage. SONIC MARS should have little problem getting exposure at retail.

While other licensed characters are "slugging" it out as side-scrolling action/platform games. SONIC MARS will break away with an innovative technology.

The SONIC MARS game engine could be a core technology for a continuing line of Sonic 16-bit Genesis/32-X games well into the next few years.

Won't the 32-X adapter cut into Saturn sales? Won't the consumer be confused about what to buy? What if 32-X fails?

Supporting the 32-X with a dedicated, quality Sonic title will give the adapter valuable credibility as a "must-have" peripheral.

Should the 32-X adapter be sidetracked, the core technology for SONIC MARS will presumably port easily to Saturn.
