Many of the designations used by manufacturers and sellers to distinguish their products are claimed as trademarks. Where those designations appear in this book, and Addison-Wesley was aware of a trademark claim, the designations have been printed in initial capital letters. However, not all words in initial capital letters are trademark designations.

The authors and publisher have taken care in preparation of this book, but make no expressed or implied warranty of any kind and assume no responsibility for errors or omissions. No liability is assumed for incidental or consequential damages in connection with or arising out of the use of the information or programs contained herein.

The Unicode Character Database and other files are provided as-is by Unicode®, Inc. No claims are made as to fitness for any particular purpose. No warranties of any kind are expressed or implied. The recipient agrees to determine applicability of information provided. If these files have been purchased on computer-readable media, the sole remedy for any claim will be exchange of defective media within ninety days of receipt.

Dai Kan-Wa Jiten used as the source of reference Kanji codes was written by Tetsuji Morohashi and published by Taishukan Shoten.

This PDF file is an excerpt from The Unicode Standard, Version 3.0, issued by the Unicode Consortium and published by Addison-Wesley. The material has been modified slightly for this online edition, however the PDF files have not been modified to reflect the corrections found on the Updates and Errata page (see <http://www.unicode.org/unicode/uni2errata/UnicodeErrata.html>). More recent versions of the Unicode standard exist (see <http://www.unicode.org/unicode/standard/versions/>).
