Risk disclosure

The value of an investment, and any income from it, may fall as well as rise, and you may not get back the amount you originally invested. Currency movements could also have an adverse impact on your investment return. While the performance of bonds, gilts and other fixed interest securities tends to be less volatile than equities there is a risk that their relative yield and the capital values may be reduced by rising interest rates. Investments in emerging markets are by their nature higher risk and potentially more volatile than those inherent in some established markets. You should view this investment as medium to long term, and should plan to keep it for at least five years. Please refer to the Product and Investment Guide for further details of the risk factors before making an investment.

Interpreting performance figures

Please note that the above figures refer to the past and that past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns.

These figures represent net performance returns and take into account standard annual management charges and on going charges where relevant. Also, where the fund is actively managed its performance can vary, sometimes significantly, from the benchmark unlike a passively managed fund, where the fund manager is seeking to match the performance of the benchmark.

The sector is the ABI Mixed Investment (40% to 85% Shares). Performance information is up to 31 March 2024.

Source of information

HSBC Life (UK) Limited and Morningstar where stated. Performance returns are calculated using market prices on the last business day of each month, starting with the first full month of trading.
