

The United States in 1803 and the Louisiana Purchase

A grayscale map of North America showing the political boundaries of the United States in 1803. A thick black line outlines the territory acquired through the Louisiana Purchase, extending from the Mississippi River westward to the Rocky Mountains and southward to the Gulf of Mexico. The map also shows state boundaries and major rivers. An inset map in the upper right corner provides a detailed view of the Northeastern United States and Canada. A scale bar at the bottom indicates distances in miles and kilometers.
